My most sincere gratitudes to honourable Prof. Rajul Bhargava and respectable Dr. Bir Singh Yadav who have provided me not only their scholarly guidance and precious time but have also motivated and supported me consistently to accomplish my task in the best possible manner.

My sincere thanks to the whole Department of English and all the other concerned staff of the Central University of Haryana for all their co-operation and support, with special thanks to Dr. Sanjiv Kumar for all his regardful assistance in various ways.

I am truly indebted to my venerable teacher Akshaya Sir who misses no chance to make me realize and trust my potentials that keeps me ever striving to come up to his expectations.

My heartiest thanks to my dear husband Deepak, to provide me his unconditional support on both academic and domestic fronts, and more importantly for bearing my impatience with patience all the while.

My warmest thanks to my vivacious brother Ajai, for being a face of optimism and a constant pillar of support to me, and specially for patiently and minutely proof-reading the whole thesis.

I am truly thankful to my admirable sister-in-law Bindu for providing me all the love, space and support which I earnestly needed to write this thesis. I owe a lot to all her care and concern which has enabled and encouraged me to remain positive amidst all negativities.

My deepest regards and infinite gratitudes to Sushant, a true friend, to help me sail smoothly through all the waves of thesis-writing in particular and life in general.

My eight year old daughter Alyssa deserves the most special mention and loveful thanks for all her love, innocence and patience with which she has borne me all the while, allowing me to accomplish this academic pursuit of mine.

I am extremely thankful to my friend Bharat, for patiently assisting me all the while in so many ways that can never be listed.

My special thanks to all those whose de-motivation motivated me to prove myself.

My sincere gratitudes to all those (the unnamed and the uncountable) whose presence around me creates an aura of positivity, always assuring me of myself.
