

Acknowledgments

During the process of writing this research work, I have felt a kind of mixed emotions of enthusiasm and negativity. While the question of the meaning of life has educated me as nothing else, the realization of the absurdity of life, sometimes, has put me into an unknown sphere of gloom and confusion. However, I should congratulate myself that, with the blessings of all my well-wishers, I have overcome this confusion. In this pursuit, I express my heartfelt regards and thanks to my supervisor, Dr. Bir Singh Yadav, whose healthy guidance and constant motivation transformed my research work into an interesting and rewarding pursuit.

I am greatly obliged by the valuable suggestions and support of Prof. H. S. Chandalia, Prof. Rajul Bhargava, Dr. Sanjiv Kumar, and all the students of the Department of English, Central University of Haryana, Mahendergarh. I feel equally grateful for the officials in the clerical department for their love and support.

I further acknowledge my indebtedness to the library members of Central University of Haryana, Mahendergarh, Alliance Francaise de Delhi, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi, Punjab University, Chandigarh, and Govt. P.G. College, Ateli for their warm and kind assistance.

I want to acknowledge the great respect and thanks to Mr. Vinay Kumar Singh and Ms. Venu Madan who supported me by providing their valuable comments as well as by allowing me to use their accounts of the Questia online library.

Uncountable thanks are due to all my friends, but especially to Amardeep, Pawan Kumar, Priyanka, Arpit Kothari, Munesh Yadav, and Neha.

My friend and life-partner Anil Kumar and my younger sister Sangeeta Kumari deserve my warm love and thanks for their love, care, encouragement, and incomparable suggestions that enriched me with the strength to complete this research work in time.

Last but not the least I owe my heartiest gratitude to my parents, my siblings, and other members of my family for their constant love and care.
