

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all, I record my sincere gratefulness to the Vice Chancellor of our University Prof. Mool Chand Sharma for his visionary outlook and constructive guidance. I feel immensely indebted to him for orienting us towards the multidisciplinary approach to research. His multifaceted personality has been a real source of inspiration for me as a researcher.

I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Sanjiv Kumar, Dept. of English for his continuous guidance and insightful comments during my research. It is due to his continuous support and encouragement that I could be able to complete my research work.

I am extremely thankful to Prof. H.S. Chandalia, Dept. of English, Central University of Haryana, who helped me to select the topic and to understand the relevance and scope of the present research. I am grateful to Dr. Bir Singh and Dr. Ritu Tomer Rathi, Faculty in the Dept. of English, who guided me throughout my M.Phil. research. I am thankful to the entire faculty, administrative staff and the supporting staff of my University for providing me all possible support and cooperation. My special thanks are due for Dr. Dinesh Kaushik, Librarian of the University and other members of Library staff, who extended me all help in collection of material and in accessing print and online resources.

My friends in the University, particularly in the Department of English deserve special mention for providing conducive environment for sharing and discussing the issues of relevance from multidisciplinary perspective. Last but not least, I am immensely grateful to the members of my family for giving me enough time to concentrate on my work. The present work could be possible only with their constant co-operation, motivation and affection.

(Yash Pal)