

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Upon having reached this triumphant moment of presenting my dissertation, I feel highly obliged to Dr. Ravindra Singh for bestowing upon me the honor of being my guide and making me take up this challenging job of undertaking this project.

I would have found it almost difficult to complete the dissertation without the motivation, assistance and kind guidance of Dr. Ravindra Singh for whom I have deep sense of gratitude.

I avail this opportunity to express my special gratitude to Dr. D.C. Vashist, Professor, Department of Economics, Mr. Ashwani, Assistance Professor, Department of Economics, Dr. P.K. Sahu, Assistant Professor, Department of Education, Central University Haryana, for always encouraging me in all my academic endeavours.

It gives me immense pleasure to thank all the respondents, staff of DRDA, BDPO and DDPO offices, librarians and e-library staff of Central University Haryana, MDU Rohtak, New Delhi, Nilokheri, staff of Central University Haryana for giving me all the necessary suggestions and help. Besides I would like to thank all the beneficiaries of the self-help groups, the staff member of DRDA who spared time and patiently answered the question of the schedule.

I am grateful indebted to all my friends, research students of the departments of Political Science, Economics and English who commented on my research work, which helped me to enrich the research work, for their sincere help and moral support. I would like to thank especially, Miss. Sanju, Miss. Priti, Mrs. Suresh, Mr. Lalit, Mr. Chhater Pal, Mr. Bajrang, Mr. Manoj, Mr. Ran Saran who gave me valuable supports and encouragement during this period of time.

I feel extremely devoted to my mother Smt. Asharfi Devi, my father Sh. Hari Ram, my mother-in-law Smt. Raj Bala, my father-in-law Sh. Rajender Singh and my husband Sh. Yetender, who always encourage me in all my pursuits. I am thankful to my brother Dr. CP, relative and members of family for their continuous support to me to complete this work. Above all I shall remain indebted to my daughter, Tamanna, who kept on waiting for paternal lap cheerful smiles refreshed me every day.

Krishana Kumari